White Cliffs Water Treatment Plan progressing

Work on the White Cliffs Water Treatment Plant is well underway. SNG Engineering are completing the project.

Initial civil works have been completed by Council including site clearing and shaping, lagoon excavations, tank pads, building slabs and associated plumbing works. On site works commence this month.

The treatment plant is being funded by Restart NSW.

This water treatment plant is a highly anticipated project and will make a big difference for the residents of White Cliffs when it comes to water quality and reliability.

In the Community Strategic Plan Improved Infrastructure across the Shire is identified as a key focus with water quality and supply a key priority area.

The water treatment plant forms part of a range of upgrades for White Cliffs water infrastructure to the value of $5.5 million.

Council is still in discussions with the funding bodies to secure additional funding to complete the Wilcannia and Ivanhoe water treatment plants. Council will update the community once there is further news.
